Road Tax Discs to be Phased Out from 15 February 2017

Motorists can also pay road tax via AXS m-Stations and e-Stations from 1 September 2016

From 15 February 2017, motorists will no longer be required to display road tax discs on the windscreens of their vehicles. The Land Transport Authority (LTA) will stop issuing physical road tax discs as part of its efforts to streamline its processes.

2 Motorists are still required to ensure that they have paid the requisite road tax for the year. Using a vehicle without valid road tax is an offence and liable to a maximum fine of $2,000. Motorists can continue to check, as well as print out proof of the validity of their road tax via the One.Motoring website at www.onemotoring.com.sg (by going to LTA eServices/Online Enquiries/Enquire Road Tax Expiry Date). They can also log into their One.Motoring account to opt to receive email reminders to renew their road tax.

Additional information for motorists

3 From 1 September 2016, motorists can also pay their road tax via AXS m-Stations (mobile) and e-Stations (internet), in addition to existing electronic payment channels such as AXS Stations, the One.Motoring portal and GIRO. These new payment channels will improve convenience for motorists.

4 Between now and 14 February 2017, motorists will continue to receive their paper road tax disc when they renew their road tax. Starting from 15 February 2017, motorists will only receive a road tax payment notice, and no paper road tax disc will be issued.

5 Motorists should ensure that their original motor insurance certificate is readily available in their vehicles at all times. Those driving into Malaysia are advised to carry printed proof of the validity of their road tax in their vehicles.
