

Excess Road Tax Paid

5. Prior to 19 December 2021, some affected vehicle owners may have paid the road tax for the licensing period beyond 1 January 2022 based on the current road tax rates. Any excess road tax paid will be automatically used to offset the road tax payable at the next renewal. If the vehicle is permanently transferred before the next road tax renewal, any excess amount paid will be used to offset the transfer fee payable, and the remaining excess amount paid will be transferred along with the vehicle to the new registered owner.

6. Vehicle owners may check if they had paid excess road tax via www.onemotoring.lta.gov.sg (Digital Services > Enquire Road Tax Payable/ Prerequisite(s) To Fulfil) from 19 December 2021.

Lowering the ARF Floor to $0

7. The EV Early Adoption Incentive and the enhanced Vehicular Emissions Scheme, which both came into effect on 1 January 2021, provide prospective buyers with combined cost savings of up to $45,000 when they purchase a fully electric car, and up to $57,500 for a new fully electric taxi. These combined rebates are currently subject to a minimum ARF of $5,000.

8. To further encourage higher adoption of electric vehicles and enable mass-market electric car buyers to benefit more fully from the combined rebates, the ARF floor will be lowered from $5,000 to $0 for fully electric cars and taxis registered from 1 January 2022 to 31 December 2023. Please advise your customers of the changes.
